DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is in response to communications received 08 January 2007. Claims 1 - 6, 8 - 12, 14, 15 and 17 - 20 are pending. Previous objections and rejections not included in this Office Action have been withdrawn.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 08 January 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding amendments to address rejections under 35 U.S.C. 101, although "apparatus" is stated in claims 8 – 12, 14 and 15, it appears that these claims recite only elements that can be implemented in software alone.

Regarding claim 1, the presenters and the converter correspond to the task pattern and model adapter [¶ 394, 399 – 400].

Regarding claim 2, Chandra teaches displaying and controlling using generic presenters [¶ 394, 399 – 400, 405 – 406].

Regarding claims 3 and 4, Chandra teaches presenters displaying portals and portlets that can use converters [¶ 368 – 370, 399 – 400, 428 – 432, 441 – 445].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. Claims 8 – 12, 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The language of the claims raises the question as to whether or not the claims can be implemented in software alone. It appears that the claims do not recite hardware to realize the functionality of the software. Therefore, the claims are rejected as being directed towards non-statutory subject matter because they appear to be claiming software, per se.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 - 6, 8 - 12, 14, 15 and 17 - 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chandra et al. (US 2002/0138582 A1; hereinafter Chandra).

As to claims 1 - 6, Chandra teaches:

[claim 1] a method of providing a user interface for an application, the method comprising:

identifying a user interface template that implements a task pattern for a model class [¶ 394,399-400];

identifying a model adapter that provides an interface for the application that conforms to the model class [¶ 399-400]; and creating a user interface for the application from the identified user interface template and the identified model adapter [¶ 294,399-400], wherein:

[claim 2] the user interface template comprises a generic view and a generic controller [¶ 294, 318, 394, 399-400,405];

[claim 3] the user interface template defines an abstract portlet, and wherein creating a user interface comprises creating a portlet instance that communicates with the application via the model adapter [¶ 368-370, 399-400];

[claim 4] creating a portlet instance comprises configuring the portlet instance using an application portlet builder portlet [¶ 428-432,441-445];

[claim 5] identifying a user interface template, identifying a model adapter and creating a portlet instance are performed using an application portlet builder portlet [¶ 399-400, 441-445]; and [claim 6] the model adapter provides a business object interface [¶ 620-621, 626].

As to claims 8 - 12, see the rejections of claims 1 - 4 and 6.

As to claims 14 - 15, see the rejections of claims 1, 3 and 6.

As to claims 17 - 20, see the rejections of claims 1 - 4.
